THE NCL CUP

The NCL Cup is a four-Invitational series held in four different markets from April to September. The Cup will feature an innovative competition format wherein men and women compete on the same team, on the same course, in a way that respects their differences yet weighs their performances and values their contributions equally. Fans will have access to in-race data through the NCL's scoreboard, a first in professional criterium racing. The Invitationals will feature 10 teams competing for a record-setting $1 Million prize purse across a series of four criterium-style races.

In addition to the four events that make up the NCL Cup, two professional domestic elite teams have been launched by the League. The Denver Disruptors and Miami Nights will compete in a full racing season, including the NCL Cup, the American Crit Circuit, road races and stage races.

To make sure athletes have the resources to compete at their best, all 32 NCL athletes receive annual salaries in addition to racing for a share of the $1 Million prize purse and prize money from races throughout the season.
